VOICEOVER (FEMALE):

More than half of organizations plan to automate controlled testing this year. Many already have. Didn't expect that? Then you probably wouldn't expect control test automation to look at more than what needs to be tested and passed and to see what is failing and why instead, or expect that that unique approach, along with interactive dashboards, could empower you with richer, contextualized insights more often and with more accessibility, enabling you to identify and respond to critical control issues in real time.

VOICEOVER (FEMALE):

You wouldn't expect one solution to transform control testing from a familiar burden into an actionable, competitive edge. That's because it's not just control test automation — it's business value, with perspective. It's cta.x — Grant Thornton's new control test automation solution, powered by alyx.
